Plans drawn for regionwide wastewater treatment in GC

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

A tentative plan has been drafted for a regional sewage treatment system that would channel waste from almost a dozen municipalities into an improved Granite City treatment plant.

The proposal is being viewed as a significant step past a lingering period of indecision for some communities unsure how they wanted to comply with state environmental standards.

THE SUGGESTED plan calls for a 12-member regional board, twice-yearly independent reviews of plant operations, and annual hearings to set waste treatment rates.

It also establishes ownership of certain segments of the future regional system and contains guidelines to divide operation and maintenance costs.

The draft was written following a series of meetings involving Granite City, Madison, Glen Carbon, Madison County and Metro-East Sanitary District representatives.

The list of proposed articles, now past the inspection of attorneys, engineers and, most importantly, the governmental bodies that are expected to be part of the newly-named Granite City Regional Sewerage System.

DWINDLING availability of state grants, increasing state pressure and escalating building cost estimates eventually forced reluctant neighboring communities into seriously considering the regional treatment system.

In September, Richard Carlson, director of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, who urged the formation of the system, said the greatest obstacle to the plan was neither technical nor economic, but the political ramifications.

PRINCIPAL AUTHORS of the plan were Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk, Glen Carbon Village President Ron Foster, Metro-East Sanitary District President Walter "Shang" Greathouse and Morris Miles, chairman of the Madison County Board's special sanitary sewer committee.

The proposed regional board would consist of five members appointed by the Granite City mayor, four appointed by the sanitary district president, two members appointed by the county board chairman, and one member appointed by the Glen Carbon board president.

Those officials making the appointments could choose to appoint themselves to the board, according to the proposed guidelines.

Mayor Schuler would choose the regional board chairman.

SCHULER EMPHASIZED that the regionalization plans at this point are merely suggestions or a "working program" until they are weighed and approved by the communities involved.

Besides the Quad-City area, Glen Carbon and MESD, participants would include Brooklyn, National City, Washington Park, Caseyville, Fairmount City, unincorporated areas of Stites and Canton townships and parts of Venice, Nameoki and Chouteau townships.

According to Mayor Schuler, the communities should all be hooked to the Granite City Treatment Plant within about a year and a half. By then, Granite City should have carried out more than $1 million in improvements to its own plant. The changes are to include a new filtering system.

The plant already is large enough to handle the extra load from the Armed robberies in area yesterday

Armed robbers were active yesterday locally, one taking an undetermined amount of money when he held up both the east and westbound toll booths on the McKinley Bridge in Venice at 6:25 p.m. yesterday. In a separate incident, an armed robber wearing a ski mask forced a Missouri man to give up his car outside a downtown Granite City Bank yesterday afternoon.

McKinley Bridge employees George Wilson and Alma Stanley were working lunch relief for the regular bridge employees when Wilson was approached by a subject toting a sawed-off, single-barrel shotgun.

WILSON SAID the subject was black and was wearing a blue stocking cap pulled down over his eyebrows. He said the man ordered him to "Come out of the booth..." Wilson said he followed instructions and stood in the middle of the two booths. The man then went into the booth and took an undetermined amount of money. The robber then went to the eastbound lane toll booth and took more money.

Wilson said he saw a second subject come out of the far eastbound traffic lane and yell, "Come on Mike," to the first subject. The first subject then ran to the second subject and they ran around the far side of the bridge office.

Positive events here outweigh '83 setbacks

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH
of the Press-Record

Although a review of 1983 includes plant closings, the economy in the year just ended showed improvement over 1982. In fact, an overview of the year tends to look rather positive for the future of the Quad-City area, all things considered.

Good news for the year started early, in January, when A.O. Smith Corporation announced it would be reopening its plant in 1985 to produce a new front structure for 1986 Ford passenger cars. The company said it would initially hire 100 to 200 employees and increase its payroll to as many as 350 or 400 by the year 1987.

IN FEBRUARY, Reliable Nesco Steel Barrel surpassed a world production record, producing 5,015 barrels in a seven and one-half hour workday. The previous record had been 4,500 barrels, which is still considered to be the plant's capacity for one day.

In late March, the Terminal Railroad Association opened its new headquarters in the former A&P food store in the 2000 block of Madison Avenue. The headquarters has 81 employees.

One month later, Heidtman Steel announced plans to proceed with construction of a steel sitting, picking and leveling plant. The plant is to hire 35 people and eventually as many as 100. It is being constructed in the Northgate Industrial Park on a 35-acre site next to Precast Metals.

IN JULY, Granite City Steel, a division of National Steel, announced that it had made a profit in each of the last three months and was likely to show a slight profit for 1983, in contrast to an $80 million loss in 1982.

Later in the month, the Tri-City Regional Port District announced it was beginning a $1,700,000 construction project with grant assistance from the Economic Development Administration of the U.S. Department of Commerce. The project involves two separate parts—construction of a truck-to-barge grain transfer facility, and expansion and improvement of rail and road facilities at the port's general cargo dock.

In August, Canfield Machinery of Toledo, Ohio, a steel processing firm, announced its intention to begin operations in Granite City. The firm expects to employ about 50 local workers in a metal cutting process for metal stampers. About 90 percent of the steel utilized annually will be purchased from Granite City Steel.

IN OCTOBER, Granite City Steel announced it was back to full production of coke, as the stockpile of surplus coke had been reduced. It also said that 33 laid-off employees had been recalled to work at the coke ovens.

A decision to move the Veterans Administration benefits office from St. Louis to the Granite City Army Installation in the next year was reached Oct. 10. The mayor of Granite City and other area officials said the move will make businesses more aware of this community's available space and convenience. In December, United Steelworkers employed in aluminum work at the Consolidated Aluminum Corporation plant in Madison voted 2-1 to accept a new 30-month contract. The action was seen as assuring the continuation of aluminum production, which was being phased out at the plant.

ALSO IN THAT month, National Super Market was given the green light to proceed with plans to build a new store twice the size of the present store in the 3000 block of Madison Avenue. Fifty additional employees will be hired when the new store is opened.

Despite such indications of an upsurge in the economy, plant closings included Caine Steel, Madison Metal Decorating and Corn Sweeteners, and continuation of the indefinite shutdown of American Steel Foundries. Also a victim of the Possible change in Venice ambulances

By VALERIE EVENDEN
of the Press-Record

In response to questions about the timing of responses by ambulances, an ad hoc committee consisting of three Venice aldermen has been named to talk with representatives of the Madison Fire Department's ambulance service.

Existing service in Venice is being provided by the Campbell Ambulance Service.

The subject was brought to the aldermen's attention at last week's meeting of the Venice City Council by Earl Hogan, a resident, who said 30 to 40 minutes passed at the scene of a traffic accident on Illinois Route 3.

Police Chief Parris Smith explained circumstances of the accident, which involved a motorist with glass in an eye. Smith noted that Campbell was initially called, but then the request was cancelled.

At that point, he said, the Madison Ambulance Service was summoned but failed to respond and Campbell was contacted a second time.

Hogan asked, "What if some child was hit by a car and it took that long to get here?"

Fourth Ward Alderman Victor Valentine Sr. commented, "Some people in our city are saying that 30 minutes is too long a time to wait."

Mayor Tyrone Echols said, "Basically, we had to take service where we could get it. When Granite City wanted to charge us $140 to $160 a call, we had to get it (service) where we could."

"We met with the Madison people in there," the mayor said, pointing to a small conference room, "and they made it clear they would not act as a backup service."

First Ward Alderman John Fleig commented, "No ambulance service is going to guarantee you that they'll be there in five minutes. Even with Madison, if they are on a call you are going to have to wait."

"In answer to a direct question, they (Madison officials) made it very clear that they would not act as a backup service and, that Madison calls would take precedence," Mayor Echols reminded the aldermen.

"Maybe we can get three or four aldermen to meet with Madison again," Valentine said, adding, "At least we could talk about the problem or negotiate."

"I have no problem with that," Mayor Echols replied. "I hope you can get them to agree. I didn't understand at the time why they wouldn't serve as backup."

He asked for volunteers to arrange a meeting with Madison authorities and then named Valentine, Fourth Ward Alderman Charles Haynes and Second Ward Alderman George Wangiaracino to meet with Madison officials and report back to the council.

Proximity to the City of Venice was cited at a meeting earlier this year as an inducement to using the Madison Ambulance Service, as opposed to Campbell's, headquartered in the Pontoon Beach area.

At the earlier meeting referred to by the mayor, a proposed agreement offered by Madison stated that basic fees charged private citizens who are without recourse to Public Aid or Medicare reimbursement would be a minimum of $15 higher per call than those presently charged by Campbell.

Additionally, the proposal said that calls originating within Madison would be afforded priority, that Madison could increase the rates after 30 or more days' advance notice, and that the contract could be terminated by either party, also with 30 days' notice.

Also at that discussion, Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk stressed that the scene and searched the area with negative results. They then consulted with a woman who lives above the bridge office. She said she saw three young black men jumping the piggyback train cars parked on the tracks.

UPON investigation, Police officers found three sets of footprints leading from the rear of the bridge office.

Police followed the tracks to the corner of Third and Kerr streets, where the tracks cross the bridge. They are still investigating the incident.

Tom Fields, McKinley Bridge manager, said this morning that he still had not determined how much money had been taken in the robbery. "We're still compiling the audit from yesterday, but we should know sometime this afternoon how much money was taken."

"SCOOT OVER or I'll shoot you in the leg," a kidnaped armed robber threatened Joseph Wanko Jr. of Florissant, Mo., outside the First Granite City National Bank downtown drive-up facility at 3:55 p.m. Monday.

Wanko had just made a deposit in the night depository on the north side of the drive-up building and got inside his auto, which was parked next to the building, when a man approached him from the rear of the car, he told police.

Wanko was about to put the keys in the ignition and before he could close the door, the robber grabbed the driver by the shoulder, pushing him further into the car with his body and telling him to move over.

WANKO REFUSED to move at first and the man threatened twice more to shoot him in the leg if he didn't "scoop over."

The robber was described as about 6 feet tall and weighing 200 pounds. He wore a blue ski mask, gloves and dark clothing.

After getting into the car, the man forced Wanko over to the passenger side of the front seat while holding what appeared to be a small automatic pistol. Wanko lunged toward the man and tried to grab the gun, but the robber struck him on the head with the weapon, he told police.

AT THAT POINT, Wanko hurriedly got out of the passenger door and the robber drove west through the bank's parking lot and turned south into the 1900 block of Edison Avenue at high rate of speed.

Wanko had a red mark from the blow above the left ear, but declined medical attention, reports said.

Fifteen minutes later, a Madison police officer spotted the vehicle, a 1968 Oldsmobile, abandoned in the 1800 block of Market Street in Madison. A search of the area was made, but the robber was not located.

TWO INJURED STUDENTS WERE HIT FROM BEHIND. Daryl J. Hays, 15, of 2431 Hemlock Ave. is recuperating from facial surgery and injuries to the backs of his legs suffered when he was struck from behind by a southbound auto at Maryville Road near Hemlock at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 21.

His father said an article about a pedestrian under a bus in front of a car was incorrect; one vehicle was passing another at the time two students were hit, he added. The second person struck was Todd A. Burkey, 15, of 3821 Village Lane, also hit in the backs of the legs.

PRENATAL CLASSES TO BEGIN TONIGHT. Prenatal classes for those expecting a child before March 30, will begin tonight at 7 p.m. at the former McKinley School, Niedringhaus Avenue and Iowa Street, according to a medical center spokesman.

Monica Rojas

Miss Monica M. Rojas, 16, of 2326 Benton St., died in the emergency room of St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 11:15 p.m. Friday, Dec. 30, 1983, the victim of apparent carbon monoxide poisoning.

Miss Rojas left a note on the dining room table to her mother saying she was in the garage. Her father, Joseph Rojas, checked the garage and found her lying face down on the next to an open driver's door of the family car which was not running, but the garage was full of exhaust fumes. The car's key was in the ignition.

Mr. Rojas carried his daughter inside the house and had a friend call for an ambulance. Emergency medical technicians from the Granite City Ambulance service found weak signs of life in Miss Rojas and attempted to revive her before transporting her to the medical center, where she died.

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record Springfield Bureau

One safe prediction can already be made about 1984. From a political standpoint it is going to be one of the most exciting years of all time.

Nationally, it will produce the closest presidential race since John Kennedy defeated Richard Nixon in 1960.

On the state level, Illinois is more than likely to see its first truly close Senate race since Republican Charles H. Percy unseated veteran Democrat Paul Douglas in 1966. This time it will be Percy who will be fighting to stay in the Senate.

Besides the Senate race, there are a number of hard-fought congressional races shaping up.

BUT BEFORE the Republicans and Democrats square off for the fall showdown, there are some interesting primaries to be decided.

Perhaps never before in the state's history has there been such a wild scramble for a U.S. Senate nomination as the Democrats are staging.

Despite frequent early speculation that one or two candidates would drop out, all four are staying in and at this stage none can be ruled out as a possible winner. There are too many intangibles.

AS PRELIMINARY skirmishing fades out along with 1983, U.S. Cong. Paul Simon rates as the favorite, as he has virtually since his announcement that he would challenge Percy.

Most polls place him ahead. But there is no lack of dissenting opinions.

Rated as Simon's closest challenger at present is State Comptroller Roland Burris.

The reasoning is that there will be another huge outpouring of black voters in Chicago, as there was in last year's governor's race and in last spring's mayoral election.

With Burris the only black in a four-way race, he could well make some more political history by becoming Illinois' first black U.S. Senate nominee from a major party.

ENDORSEMENT by the Democratic organizations in Cook County, Chicago and the State Central Committee automatically make Senate President Philip Rock a contender.

In politics believe Rock's close identity with regular party politics (he is currently state Democratic chairman) may hurt him more than help.

But organization support is not to be casually dismissed in a primary election. In Chicago, especially, organization workers will see to it that their voters make it to the polls.

A POTENTIAL sleeper in the race is Alex Seith, who has been making a clever campaign through television commercials.

Seith has been stressing an ideas campaign and it is just possible that many voters will find this a refreshing change from traditional primary politicking.

Certain to affect the Democratic gang fight is the bitter struggle under way in heavily Democratic Chicago between forces of Mayor Harold Washington and Cook County Democratic Chairman Edward Vrdolyak.

Washington is striving to seize control of the county organization from Vrdolyak and has fielded opposing candidates in 35 of the 50 Chicago wards.

ANOTHER FACTOR new to Illinois politics in 1984 is the historic bid by Chicago's Jesse Jackson to become the first black to make a major effort to be nominated for president.

Jackson's effort has attracted unprecedented press and television attention across the county and he is certain to be on the March primary ballot in Illinois.

His drive already has spurred high registrations by blacks in many states and a big election day turnout is expected, especially in Illinois. This is why many politicians think the odds are better than even that Burris will wind up with the Senate nomination.

THINGS HAVE BEEN quieter on the Republican side, so far. Percy still rates as an overwhelming favorite to turn back primary challenger U.S. Rep. Tom Corcoran.

All polls show Percy far ahead. Corcoran, little known in most of the state, has had trouble attracting support from county chairmen and other party leaders. His crowd turns have been small.

But elections are still decided in the polling booth on election day and not in surveys or at political rallies.

REPUBLICANS in Illinois are basically conservative, and conservatives tend to be far less vocal in political campaigns than liberals or even moderates.

Corcoran supporters claim there is a "sleeper" vote out there that will make itself known on election day.

He has steadily flailed away at Percy as a liberal senator more attuned to the views of GOP maverick John Anderson than the philosophy and policies of President Reagan.

It is possible that the Percy-Corcoran contest could turn into a serious fight by the time primary voters go to the polls in March. Politics is known for its surprises.

WORKFORCE REDUCTION IN

PEABODY CO. COAL MINING

Peabody Coal Company's Illinois Division, headquartered at Fairview Heights, discontinued operation of the $200 dragline at its River King Pit No. 3 Mine near New Athens at the end of the day Thursday, Dec. 29. The reduction in workforce affected 45 employees at the River King surface complex.

"This reduction is the result of realignment of production capabilities at the Belleville area surface mines," said John C. "Jack" Bennett, Illinois Division president. The River King surface complex includes Peabody's operations at the River King Pit No. 6 Mine, River King Pit No. 3 Mine, River King Preparation Plant and the Kaskaskia Dock.

Venice ambulances

Madison would not act as a backup to Campbell, but had mutual aid agreements for backup service itself from other unspecified sources, it was related.

Concern was expressed by two aldermen at the time about what would happen should Madison decide to discontinue its ambulance service.

"The only way that we'd go out of business is if we were mandated by the state to do something we could not do or if insurance rates went too high," Mayor Sasyk replied at the time.

At a later council session, Venice aldermen declined to accept the Madison proposal and agreed to remain with Campbell Ambulance Service.

In other business Tuesday night, First Ward Alderman Philip Daniels commended Venice police for cracking down on speeders with a new radar "gun."

"I saw them up on a (McKinley) bridge and that's a good place to be," he stated.

"I think they'll make it (radar) pay for itself by the tickets we've seen," Mayor Echols said.

Numerous speeding arrests have been logged by Venice officers since the new radar device was placed in operation about two weeks ago.

The mayor expressed his appreciation to the aldermen for their help in distributing Christmas candy treats to Venice youngsters.

"Unfortunately, we could not afford to give Christmas baskets. That's the financial situation we are in," he remarked.

He reported that construction is progressing on the new Venice

Safety essential despite costs

These are trying days financially for many airlines. Braniff and Continental are bankrupt and several other carriers are trying desperately to cut operating costs to avoid a similar fate. Inevitably perhaps, the flying public wonders whether some airlines might be tempted to save a little by scrimping on maintenance and, therefore, shortchanging safety.

In October, an Air Illinois commuter plane crashed, killing all 10 persons aboard. The subsequent investigation by federal authorities found safety deficiencies in Air Illinois' operations.

The Federal Aviation Administration then grounded two of Air Illinois' larger planes because records needed to show that required maintenance had been performed were missing. The airline, which normally flies about 28,000 passengers a month on its fleet of 13 turbine-powered planes, then suspended all flight operations.

It is not the FAA's intention to put Air Illinois out of business. On the contrary, agency officials are working with the airline's management to bring Air Illinois into compliance with all federal safety regulations.

That will require better record keeping, improved maintenance, updated flight manuals, and certain changes in training for Air Illinois pilots. That accomplished, Air Illinois can be back in business. What should be heartening to the public in all of this is the tangible evidence of FAA vigilance on the safety issue. Federal regulators do not often shut down a commercial air carrier.

What happened to Air Illinois will presumably serve as an object lesson to other carriers, which now have one more reason to make doubly certain that safety does not suffer even when budgets are tight. And that is good news to the flying public.

Strategic reserve is achieved

Ten years ago, Americans were learning to wait in line to buy gasoline. The Arabs slapped an embargo on oil sales to the U.S. in the aftermath of the Yom Kippur war that began on Oct. 6, 1973.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries doubled the price of oil in October and doubled it again in December. When the embargo was lifted in March 1974 oil began flowing at a new price of more than $11 a barrel, which seemed high until the collapse of the government of the shah of Iran in 1979.

There were more shortages and waiting lines, and the price of oil soon peaked at an official price of $34 and up to $40 or more on the spot market.

All this is brought to mind by an announcement by the Department of Energy that we have reached the midpoint in filling the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve. Among the many lessons of the energy shocks of the 1970s was that the U.S. should put some crude oil away for a rainy day.

The DOE says the recent arrival of a tanker full of North Sea oil to go into a salt dome storage site at West Hackberry, La., provided the 375-millionth barrel of oil to go into the strategic reserve. The SPR was established in 1977 with a target of putting 750 million barrels of oil into storage to form a cushion in case of another interruption in supplies from overseas.

What is more significant is that 375 million barrels of oil today will go as far in covering our import needs as 750 million barrels would have gone in 1977. In that year, the U.S. was importing 8.6 million barrels of oil a day.

Today, we are importing only 4.2 million barrels. So the amount of oil now in storage represents the amount of insurance we once hoped to obtain from twice as much — that is, enough to cover our import needs for 90 days.

The administration should continue to add crude oil to the reserve. Economic recovery is expected to increase energy consumption to some degree, and with that increase may come a renewal of demand for imported oil. As imports rise, so will the amount of stored petroleum needed to provide 90 days of replacement.

The Strategic Petroleum Reserve is a government program that is accomplishing precisely what it was supposed to do.

of America. School children have written. Whole classes of school children have written. Parents have written. People who can remember polio and people who cannot have written.

What they all wanted to do is say thank you to someone who did something magnificent and now could use a little cheering up himself.

When the mail to Dr. Sabin hit the 60,000-piece level last week and kept right on climbing, the NIH ran out of places to put it. Even the good doctor himself took advantage of a hospital-room appearance on TV to thank the public but ask that no more mail be sent to him.

Dr. Sabin is recovering slowly and with some pain, but still recovering. He may well walk again. When he was stricken with his still-unexplained malady this year, Dr. Sabin was working on a spray vaccine for measles, a disease triggering secondary infections that kill thousands of children in Third World countries each year. If he completes his work successfully, new generations will be in Dr. Sabin's debt.

champion for proper grammar and spelling and did not hesitate to challenge misuse of the language when he saw it.

It was tragic to see his talents eroded by cancer year after year. One of his last wishes was to visit his "buddies" at the Press-Record. We were happy to have him here just before Christmas and to fulfill that wish.

He spent most of his life trying to keep Quad-Cityans informed what was going on around them. Now we hope he enjoys a well deserved rest.

It is also important to note that if more than one party is at fault in an accident, the injured party must be extremely careful about releasing one of the parties. Illinois law provides that an unconditional release as to one of the parties at fault releases all the other parties causing the injury unless the release itself states otherwise.

In a recent case, a man was killed in an automobile accident, and the administrator of his estate settled the case against the other driver for $49,000. A release was signed at that time by the administrator. Later, the widow brought a case against the automobile manufacturer for defective design of the car in which her husband was killed. The court dismissed this case, and held that the earlier release signed by the administrator was a full release. The court noted that the $49,000 was accepted "in full satisfaction" of the estate's claim, and therefore the release signed earlier would prohibit the widow from bringing the separate lawsuit.

It is important to note that if the injured party were to sign such a document, this could be viewed as a full and final settlement, which would prohibit him from recovering for his personal injuries at a later date. It has been the experience of this writer that when a release is prepared in this manner, this is frequently merely an oversight by the company. Nevertheless, it is important to read such a document carefully or have it reviewed by an attorney before signing.

With the government's decision to cut back on surplus food distribution to low income families, persons shopping at Crossroads Plaza Friday were asked if they thought the government does enough for those people. Persons were also asked their opinions of people who shoplift food for sustenance. Their reactions follow.

Lois Scarmoes, Granite City
"It seems to me like the government does enough. It seems like they do quite a bit. I don't know for sure, all I know is what I read in the papers. As for people stealing for food, I don't think it's right. I have trouble sometimes affording the things that I need, but I don't steal them."

Elizabeth Skubish, Madison
"I think the government does quite a bit (for low income families), but I think there are many people who don't get any help who may need it more than those who do. It's a shame that people can't get by on pensions or social security. Those people who steal food are not criminals. They just need some help. They are the people who should get more help."

Edna Richter, Granite City
"Yes, I think the government does enough for those people. As for the shoplifters, they shouldn't do it, not even for food. It's still a crime regardless of age."

Lezlie Voyles, Granite City
"I really don't know how much the government does for families. But it seems like there are a lot of people who do need food assistance. As for the people who steal for food, those are the ones who need the most assistance."

GC unemployment declines again in November, 15.5%

Unemployment continued to decline in Granite City during November, according to statistics released this morning by the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security. The preliminary November figures show unemployment among Granite City residents at 15.5 percent, down from a final figure of 16.1 percent in October. The labor force remained stable at 19,800 each month, while the number of Granite City residents employed increased from 16,625 to 16,750, dropping the number of unemployed from 3,175 in October to 3,075 in November, the statistics show. Granite City, however, continues to lead large area cities in the rate of persons still on unemployment. Belleville follows at 13.3 percent, Alton's unemployment stands at 15.1 percent and East St. Louis lists 11.1 percent qualifying for unemployment. The situation in Madison County remains basically unchanged when comparing the two months. The number listed as unemployed grew from 14,250 in the county in October to 14,925 in November, but the workforce (employed and unemployed) increased from 126,025 to 127,000, leaving the county unemployment rate at 11.3 percent for each month. In the seven-county region, Calhoun County had the highest November unemployment at 17.5 percent, Jersey County followed at 13.2 percent and Madison County was third at 11.3 percent. Lower unemployment rates were noted in Bond County at 10.3 percent, St. Clair County at 9.8 percent, Clinton County at 9.3 percent and Monroe County at 7.3 percent. The average for the seven-county region in November was 10.3 percent, a decline from 10.5 percent in October's final figures. Statewide, the unemployment rate dipped from 9.4 percent to 9.3 percent as the workforce increased from 5,502,000 to 5,543,000 and the number on unemployment declined from 515,000 to 513,000.

News Notes

A grief support group consisting of six weekly sessions will begin Tuesday, Jan. 10, at Cottonwood Medical Park, Cottonwood Road, under sponsorship of Hospice of Madison County.

James L. Eisenbeis, director of production control and traffic at Granite City Steel, has been elected a director of the Association of Iron and Steel Engineers. His one-year term with the 12,000-member international technical society begins this month.

Federal pressure is increasing against Madison and St. Clair counties and the Chicago area due to air pollution and lack of auto exhaust testing. Loss of highway funds to the state is being threatened.

GC Police donate for yule prizes

The Granite City Police and Fire departments contributed two bicycles for the "Christmas for Kids" party given Dec. 24 by elected, city, park, school and county officials. The bicycles were given to two Granite City school children, who were among those taking part in a drawing held after the party. The participation of the police department had inadvertently been omitted in a previous article on the "Christmas for Kids" event.

He listed actual '82-83 fuel expenditures as $16,924, including about $3,300 related to unusual snow conditions.

For 1983-84, the commissioner sought $17,500 but only $12,500 was budgeted for gasoline and oil, the commissioner asserted.

With the $2,000 transferred last week, Mehelec has at his disposal for fuel $14,500 for the fiscal year that will end in two months, he said.

Expenditures so far this year for fuel total $10,494 and the $14,500 total should prove adequate unless the January-February weather creates more road maintenance problems currently expected, Mehelec added. "I wanted to have just one fuel fund transfer, not several."

He said Adams continues to oppose the commissioner's practice of using township gasoline for his personal vehicle, which Mehelec said he devotes to 24-hour response to highway needs.

He added that his practice of buying his own vehicle eases fund balances that then can be used to acquire various other types of road equipment needed by Nameoki Township.

Some of the 1983-84 fuel expenditures have been utilized for blacktopping and for Community Development programs that the township favors, including Miracle Manor and Bellemeire Place work, Mehelec concluded.

We lost a good newspaper man

We mourn the passing Sunday morning of a good newspaperman and a friend. Martin Bartosik of Granite City, former assistant to the editor of the Press-Record until his retirement in 1976, was well known in my city and county politics. He was known as "Black Bart." Bartosik thoroughly covered the Granite City School Board, city council, county board, the police beat, sports and numerous other areas during his many years as a newsmen. He was a stickler for details and a strong

Use caution in settling injury cases

If a person who is injured signs a release, he gives up his claim against the party at fault. In fact, usually, when a personal injury case is settled, the defendant will insist that the plaintiff sign a release in exchange for the money paid to the plaintiff. If a party who is injured signs a full release, he can't later seek more money from the party who is at fault, even if the injury proves to be more serious than was known at the time of settlement. This is why it is important to never settle a personal injury case before the full extent of the injury is known.

In some cases, an individual will sustain personal injuries in an automobile accident, as well as property damage to his vehicle. This office has seen instances where an insurance company will attempt to first settle the property damage aspect of the case. However, the company sometimes will present a release which states that the person is settling any and all claims arising from the accident.

It is important to note that if the injured party were to sign such a document, this could be viewed as a full and final settlement, which would prohibit him from recovering for his personal injuries at a later date. It has been the experience of this writer that when a release is prepared in this manner, this is frequently merely an oversight by the company. Nevertheless, it is important to read such a document carefully or have it reviewed by an attorney before signing.

economy was the United Way campaign, which fell short of its $670,000 goal.

Education also felt the effects of the recession in 1983. In Granite City, the school district closed six schools and laid off nearly 200 employees. The closings included Granite City High School North after ten years of operation.

SOMETHING GOOD came out of the North closing, however, as the community lost a school but gained a college. Belleville Area College opened a sister school known as Granite City Center on the old North campus during the summer. Dr. Frank Gornick was named provost of the education center, which attracted more than 2,000 students.

Despite the success of Granite City Center, school district officials encountered a problem in August when teachers failed to report because of class size. The dispute was resolved within two weeks.

Three of five incumbent school board members were defeated in November. The three had more than 38 years of service on the board. David Partney succeeded Donald Stucke as president. THE MADISON School Board also reorganized when its president, Sam Dymas, died of cancer. Ed Warchol was named to the board and Paul Bargiel was elected as president.

Criminal cases in the news included the conviction and sentencing of Don Benny Anderson, who was sentenced to 30 years in prison for his involvement as the key figure in the kidnapping of Dr. Hector Zewallins and the doctor's wife, Rosalie Jean.

Thomas Brimberry of Granite City, former Stix & Co. stock brokerage senior vice-president, also was sentenced in 1983, to 10 years' imprisonment. The firm went out of existence and he still faces a trial on other charges.

THE ECONOMIC Opportunity Commission (EOC) was a constant source of news in 1983, as allegations of misuse of funds in the Weatherization Program mounted against the group. An investigation, which is still proceeding, has resulted in the freezing of the commission's funds. The closing of the Head Start instruction program for pre-school children, and the firing of EOC Executive Director Ruben Williams.

Among varied Quad-City area events in 1983 was the arrival in June of His Holiness Kardek II, Catholics of the Holy See of Cilicia of Antetras, Lebanon. The Armenian leader is the spiritual guide to over 350,000 people in Canada and the United States.

The Brimberry mansion was sold to Leon Streif of Vandalia. James Pennkamp became executive vice-president of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce. In December, there was a devastating fire at Irwin Chapel for Funerals.

AMONG THE SADDEST events of the year was the death of Captain Keith Lucas in the mission to rescue American medical students in Grenada.

The news brought the military action on the tiny island frighteningly close to home for Quad-City residents.

Nineteen hundred and eighty-three was a year, then, of tragedy for some and joy for others, a time of gains and setbacks, a year whose completion has set the stage for considerable hope and redemption to ideals in 1984.

other communities. The improvement costs would be paid by the city with an anticipated 75 percent grant from the state.

GRANITE CITY also is expected to be responsible for all debts on the existing Granite City facility.

The city currently charges Madison County users a $5 per quarter past due service retirement charge. Some communities had balked at this expected charge.

"This (expected charge) is in consideration of the increased OMR (operation, maintenance and replacement) costs to be allocated to Granite City users by reason of implementation of the Regional System versus the present system," it is stated in the proposed rules.

Granite City is expected to bill each of the member communities on a monthly basis, with payments due within 30 days.

Interest of 1 percent would be charged for bills past due. Granite City aldermen have suggested that, in order to insure payments.

EACH PARTICIPATING community would bill its individual users based on its own established user charges. Billing and collection costs for individual users would be responsibility of each community.

Granite City's bulk rate charges to each community would be based on operation and maintenance costs and on flow meter and sampling stations operated by Glen Carbon, Madison County and the Metro-East Sanitary District.

Mayor Schuler told aldermen last Tuesday that he would be interested in Granite City getting out of the "rate setting business."

THE REGIONAL board would have the power to give non-binding budget recommendations to Granite City.

The board also would be allowed to establish the staffing needs of the treatment plant, including the number, salary and actual hiring of employees.

Granite City would retain ownership of its plant. The Metro-East Sanitary District would convert its existing Lansdowne Treatment Plant into a pump station and peak flow storage site.

THE SANITARY district also would be responsible for the construction and maintenance of a new Venice pump station.

Glen Carbon would have to construct an interceptor sewer to transport wastewater from the village to the Madison County sewer system, which connects to the Granite City plant.

Mayor Schuler hopes to have all the provisions of the regional sewage treatment agreement finalized by March.

Hypnosis clinics to offer aid to smokers, overeaters

Persons who want to stop smoking or lose weight can get help with hypnosis clinics offered by the American Lung Association of Illinois.

John Greer, president and clinical hypnotist with Breakaway Techniques of Ortonville, Mich., will conduct clinics on Thursday, Jan. 12, to help area residents change their attitudes toward smoking or eating.

Hypnotic suggestions have proven effective in helping people overcome such wide-range problems as nail biting, stuttering, overeating, smoking, forgetfulness, insomnia and many others, Greer said.

"We learn as young children to associate eating with our most pleasant experiences," Greer adds. "Our minds need programming to get our subconscious to believe that all sweets are not rewarding and it's not sinful if we don't eat every bite on our plates."

In the Weight Control Clinic, Greer helps clients reprogram emotional attitudes that make their lives revolve around food, thereby enabling them to break the yo-yo syndrome of shedding pounds only to put them back on again.

In his Stop Smoking Clinic, he helps participants reprogram their subconscious minds to choose to be non-smokers.

"People who give up smoking through sheer willpower have to fight the urge to light up 20 or 30 times a day," he says. "With hypnosis, they can get through the five days of actual physical withdrawal from nicotine without being grouchy and irritable and feeling deprived. With hypnosis, they can stay away from cigarettes simply because they have no desire to light up," he said.

Participants in the clinics will relax during three hypnotic inductions when Greer will give positive suggestions to reprogram their subconscious minds to make desirable life changes. Each participant will receive literature and a cassette tape for reinforcement of suggestions at home.

The clinics will be conducted on Jan. 12 at St. Paul United Methodist Church on Bluff Road off Route 157 in Edwardsville.

The stop smoking clinic will be at 6:30 p.m. and the weight control clinic will follow at 8:30 p.m.

For more information regarding registration and fees, interested persons may call Peggy Harris at 1-656-1500 or 1-288-5000.

'Complete' Trojans win Centralia Tournament

Whip Defending Champion Benton, ESt. Louis

By ROGER KRAMER
of the Press-Record

CENTRALIA—After the Madison Trojans defeated East St. Louis 58-47 Friday to win the Centralia Holiday Tournament, it was inevitable that comparisons between this season's team and the 1980-81 team, which also won the tournament, be made.

After all, both versions of the Trojans defeated Class AA teams to win the tournament. The 1980-81 team went on to win the Class A state championship, so comparisons were bound to be made.

Madison Coach Larry Graham didn't mind making the comparisons either.

For instance, Madison guard-forward Michael Young was the only Trojan on the all-tournament team despite the fact the Trojans won the tournament. Even then, Young only managed to make the second team. It can be said the Trojans are a no-name team this season.

"In 1980-81 when we won, we had a lot of names," Graham said. "We had Patrick Hatter, Morris Hughes and Kerwin Stanley, and they were all exciting players who people wanted to watch. Since they've left, attendance at our games has been down."

"We had some exciting games with that team. I bet if I had to watch this game (the title game) as a fan, I might have been bored," Graham said.

Graham didn't mean to be derisive towards this team at all. The fact is that the 1980-81 team and this season's squad are two different types of teams. The 1980-81 squad whizzed past their opponents. This season squad patiently picks them apart.

The Trojans, long associated for their run-and-gun kind of basketball, are now a patient team. After defeating Belleville West Wednesday to open the tournament, the Trojans knocked off top-seeded and defending champion Benton 45-42 in the quarterfinals Thursday.

In Friday's semifinal, Madison proved it can play deliberate basketball with the best of them by defeating Homewood-Flossmoor 52-46. Finally, Madison, who has a habit of beating the Flyers at the tournament, continued the trend in the title game.

In other words, the Trojans defeated three Class AA teams with a combined record of 22-3 in 30 hours. In doing so, Madison won the title in its first and last visits to Centralia. Next year, Madison will be entered in the Collinsville Holiday Tournament.

"We've never been able to have a ball team control the tempo of the Spraggins, a 5-10 senior, was named the most valuable player of the tournament.

Valentine fronted Spraggins as he came down the court and forced him towards the sideline so that Williams could join him and box Spraggins.

"We knew it was going to be tough to win here. We were happy defeating Belleville West, but we continued to play well the rest of the tournament. I'm very happy about it."

Larry Graham
Madison basketball coach

game like this team," Graham said. "This is the most patient team that I ever had at Madison, and our defense played really hard."

East St. Louis, which appeared to be still recovering from its 69-64 comeback win over Centralia in the other semifinal game, was ready to be picked apart by the Trojans. Madison center Reggie Banks was the tool the Trojans used.

Banks, a 6-3 junior, beat Flyers center Eric Young quickly with 10 points in the first quarter. Young, a 6-9 senior, could not keep Banks from hitting on the eight-10 foot jump shots.

"I saw after my first shot that he (Young) wasn't going to get on me, so I kept on taking the shots. The coach told me not to change the way I shoot at all," Banks said.

Banks' jump shots were a new but potent weapon. Banks perfected the jump shot Thursday while he had to shoot over Benton center Bruce Baker, a 6-7 senior. Banks released the ball when his hands were at their highest, and the giants were unable to block the shots.

His hot shooting enabled Madison to take a 16-10 lead at the end of the first quarter. Madison then forced four straight East St. Louis turnovers in the second quarter and jumped to a 22-10 lead. The Flyers were forced to play catch up from that point on.

However, Madison made it extremely difficult for East St. Louis to comeback, especially on defense. In his first three games, East St. Louis guard Teddy Spraggins scored 51 points, or 17 per game. Madison guards Victor Valentine and Delroy Williams held Spraggins to 10 points.

"We wanted to keep Spraggins away from the middle and away from the baseline because that's where he was hurting everyone else," Valentine said. We knew if we could keep him double-teamed, we would be in good shape.

Above all, the Trojans were patient. Although Madison only took 41 shots at the basket, they scored on 24 of them for an outstanding 59 percent. On the other hand, the Flyers only made 36 percent (22-61) of their shots.

Although the Flyers cut Madison's lead to 49-43 with only 2:13 left in the game, Madison made nine of 11 free throw tries in the final minutes. It was finally time to savor the wins.

"We knew it was going to be tough to win here," Graham said. "We were happy defeating Belleville West, but we continued to play well the rest of the tournament. I'm very happy about it."

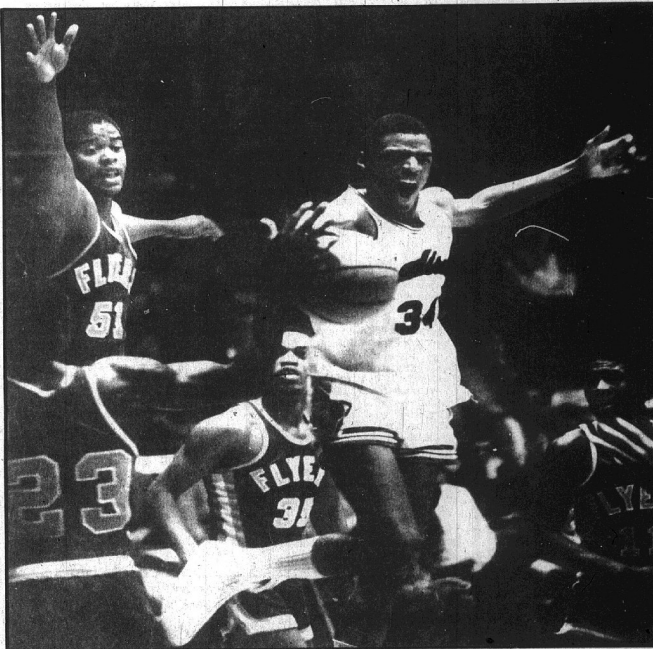

Balanced scoring again prevailed for the Trojans. Banks led Madison with 16 points. James Bennett put in 12 points. Valentine scored 10 points and Michael Young scored 10 points. sm1200rbsw08

MADISON 52
H-FLOSSMOOR 38

The Trojans were concerned about whether they would be able to handle the deliberate style of the Vikings of Homewood-Flossmoor. They did.

The Vikings, who defeated Edwardsville 44-32 in Thursday's quarterfinals, lost at their own game as Madison slowed things down somewhat in semifinal game.

Madison scored 10 unanswered points midway through the second quarter, and the Vikings, unaccustomed to playing catch-up, were never back in the game.

Madison, which had been a poor free throw shooting team early this season, made 11 free throws in the fourth quarter to ensure the victory.

The Vikings were forced to foul when the Trojans started stalling. Yes, stalling.

Madison was 18 of 36 from the field for 50 percent, and 16 of 25 from the line.

Williams led the Trojans with 13 points, and Banks added 11 points in the winning effort. sm1200rbsw08

GCHS grabs third in Mater Dei

Victories Improve Warrior Record To 4-8

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record

BREESSE—The Granite City High School Warrior basketball team used a sparkling win over the Redskins of Chatham-Glenwood to take third in the Mater Dei Holiday Tournament last week. It was the Warriors' best finish in a holiday tournament in four years.

Warrior Coach Don Deterding, who had entered the tournament hoping for three wins, got his wish Friday night as the Warriors demolished their opponents 67-50. Granite City led by as much as 26 points late in the fourth quarter.

The Warriors' two other victories were over East St. Louis Assumption, 57-44 and Nashville, 51-49. A 51-43 loss to Mater Dei in the semifinals placed the Warriors in the third place contest against Chatham-Glenwood.

Mater Dei went on to win the tournament with an impressive 90-28 win over Springfield-Griffin. sm1200rbsw08

GRANITE CITY 43

In the semifinal game, the Warriors played the Knights almost even for the first three quarters. Granite City took an early lead in the game on an outside shot by Jeff Gray. The score moved to 6-6 before two key turnovers by the Warriors gave Mater Dei a 10-6 lead. At the end of the first quarter Mater Dei led 16-12.

The Warriors opened the second quarter on a high note. A free throw by Art Williams and a basket by Scott Cant tied the game at 15. The Knights retained a lead in the game on their own to regain their lead 18-15.

However, the Warriors refused to give up. Can and Kurt Hylla combined to give the Granite City lead, 19-18.

Early foul trouble for the Warriors forced them to play cautious. Mater Dei rallied during this time to take a 26-20 lead. A slight comeback by the Warriors made the half-time score 26-23.

Granite City opened the second half with a flurry. The Warriors jumped to an early 33-29 lead before the foul trouble that had plagued them earlier in the game came back

"I can't say enough about the play of our guards. They handled the Mater Dei press very well. They (Mater Dei) only had one steal on the press and they didn't get any fast breaks. I think this is the first loss where we didn't beat ourselves," Deterding said.

"I think this was by far our best ballgame so far. We had very few mistakes that were unforgotten. We were just beaten by a better team."

to haunt them.

Hylla, who is probably the most aggressive Warrior under the basket, left the game with five fouls. A.J. Henken, who was the Mater Dei player fouled by Hylla, made the shot and the free throw to give his team back the lead at the end of the third quarter, 35-33.

The fourth quarter was all Mater Dei. The Knights came out and immediately went into a stall. Everytime they came down the court they would take at least one minute off the clock. Outside shooting was also a plus for the Knights as most of their fourth quarter points came from the outside.

This outside shooting combined with the free throw shooting of the Knights proved to be too much for the Warriors. The Knights hit 15 of 25 free throw attempts compared to 7 of 16 for the Warriors. This eight points proved to be the difference in the final score.

Despite the loss, Coach Deterding was pleased with his Warriors. "I think this was by far our best ball game so far. We had very few mistakes that were unforgotten. We were just beaten by a better team," stated Deterding.

GRANITE CITY 67

CHATHAM-GLENWOOD 50
Friday night's game was a totally different type of game for the Warriors. In earlier games the Warriors were forced to come from behind, but not this time.

Kurt Hylla and Jeff Gray had eight points each in the first quarter and paced the Warriors to an early lead. Gray worked on the Redskins from the outside while Hylla did his work from under the boards. The Warriors led at the end of the first quarter 18-10.

Granite continued to dominate in the second quarter. Gray added 10 more points for the Warriors who worked their offense much better than they had the previous night against Mater Dei.

At the end of the half Granite City led 35-22. They had shot an impressive 65 percent from the field. The Warriors had also shot 63 percent from the free throw line. Chatham-Glenwood had shot only 36 percent from the field and 40 percent from the free throw line.

The Warriors increased their lead to 50-34 after three quarters by combining good passing with good shooting. Jeff Gray continued to perplex the Redskins. At one point in the third quarter, Jeff Gray scored six straight points for the Warriors. In the fourth quarter the Warriors had fun. When the game was securely tucked away in the win column Coach Deterding removed his starters to give the rest of the team a chance to share in the victory. They responded in high fashion and continued to increase the Warrior lead.

Despite a late minute scoring surge by the Redskins the Warriors came away with a 67-50 victory.

"It's nice coaching a game like that where one mistake won't cost you the game," stated Coach Deterding.

Gray, who had lead the Warriors with 29 points in their victory over Assumption, added 32 points in the final game against Chatham-Glenwood. He had 78 points in the tournament.

The all tournament first team included three Mater Dei players, Mark Etter, Rob Schadege, and most valuable player Phil Boeckmann. The team also included Mike Hartman of Springfield-Griffin and Scott Hessay of O'Fallon.

Devils dazzle Gibault; win 11th tourney title

By AL BARNES
of the Press-Record

COLUMBIA — The Venice High School Red Devils, in a spinning exhibition of tight upper-lip basketball playing, won the 19th annual Columbia-Freeburg Holiday Invitational Basketball Tournament last Thursday night before a jam-packed gym by defeating the Gibault (Waterloo) Hawks, 69-63.

It was the 11th tournament championship for Venice in the 19 years of the tournament and drew a field of 16 schools. The Venice Red Devils won the first three meets (1965 through '67). Odin High won it in '68. Venice came back for two in '69 & '70 and St. Paul High of Highland took it all in 1978. Then the Red Devils won four in a row before Lebanon won two (76 & 77) straight and New Athens in 1979. Mighty Madison in '79 and Freeburg two in a row (in '80 & '81) before Venice won it all last (1982) year.

Venice's new coach (succeeding Ken Perkins), Clinton Harris, went into the championship game against the Gibault High Hawks with a game plan which he never deserted despite being behind by five points at the half-time intermission, 32-39. It was the first time the Devils had trailed at the half in their current 82 season.

Said Harris, who came to Venice

by the way of a prep career at St. Louis (in St. Louis), junior college (two years at Kilgore Junior College deep in Texas) and State in Ames, Iowa, and an assistantship at Lovejoy: "I wasn't too worried, if at all. Coach (Dennis) Reuter had his Gibault (Hawks) type of game, which stresses defense. But, I knew that we have always been a very strong third-quarter team and that Ed Salmond is a slow starter ... so, I wasn't worried."

Sure enough, little Eddie Salmond, Venice's brilliant point-guard, came out firing with deadly accuracy in the third period.

The capacity crowd in attendance, sensing a possible upset, was frankly pulling for the rugged (and big compared to Venice) Gibault and High team through the first two quarters and at the tip-off beginning the third period.

However, right off the bat, the rapier-like quick Salmond stole an early Hawks' pass and dribbled in for the first basket of the second half. And, when he then sank four-straight high-arching bombs from an average of 20-feet out, the only cheers suddenly were from the large Venice contingent on hand. The Red Devils, in a truly championship display of play, poured through 20 points to just nine for Gibault in the third period. Salmond's four bombs clearly broke Gibault's heart.

However, Coach Reuter's Hawk players never quit and, if they had been able to make their free-throws (they made only five of 10 chances in the final quarter during which the Devils were connecting on nine of 13), they very probably could have posted one of the young season's biggest upsets.

But, Salmond and his running mates, starters Larry McGhee, Charlie Milton, Darren Wise and Phillip White and subs Vic Jackson and Craig Hamilton, calmly and coolly slammed the door on the Hawks in the final quarter.

Salmond took game scoring honors with 22 points and was chosen the tournament's Most Valuable Player. Jackson, with 14 points and Milton with 11, took some pressure off of Salmond when the Gibault defense attempted two-time little Eddie in the final two quarters.

Gibault's rugged Jeff Pieper (6'3 1/2"), center, paced the losers with 17 points. The game, as mentioned, was bitterly contested and resulted in almost a standoff in personal fouls called: the Red Devils were whistled for 19 miscues, while the Hawks had 19 called against them.

The champions' ability to make the charity basket (19 to nine) was clearly the difference.

Gibault's feat in holding Venice to just 10 points in the second quarter was an amazing thing to see; at the same time, the Hawks were scoring 18 points.

VENICE HIGH VIGNETTES: For those southwestern Illinois high school basketball fans who have thought that Clinton Harris was the son (or younger brother) of the legendary and late "Tree" Harris, we must tell them that they weren't even distantly related. "In fact," says rugged Clint Harris, "I don't believe I ever saw Coach (Tree) Harris."

Five older male fans, all from Venice, were asked after the game to rank the current Red Devils with past teams from Venice with the 1983-84 edition, including Rich Essington's Illinois State champions. Each man refused to make the choice. Their consensus: all were outstanding, but uniquely different in styles. All, it was true, featured at least one great outcourt shooting star.

Congratulations are due Columbia High's head coach, Jim Stuart and his assistant Bill Todd for their efforts in putting on the tournament. Next year, it will be held at Freeburg High. This corner's only suggestion: set aside a work space for the printed media to "cover the tournament." It's tough taking notes and keeping score balancing a scoreboard on one's knees.

But, again congratulations, Stuart and Todd and their co-workers. Nothing matches a good prep basketball tournament in sheer excitement.

REACHING FOR A REBOUND. Venice's Darren Wise reaches behind his head to pull down this rebound away from Gibault's Tim Degener in the championship game of the Columbia Holiday Tournament. The Red Devils went on to win the tourney, its 11th in the 19-year history of the tournament.

going into the tournament, partly because it the defending champion and partly because it had last year's tournament MVP, Bruce Baker. Baker scored the tying basket with 1:17 left in the game. The score was 42-41 at that point, and momentum seemed to be going to Benton.

However, Madison had Michael Young, and the 6-0 senior was enough to push the Trojans past the Rangers.

The Trojans survived Benton's Benton guard Kai Nurnberger stepped over the midcourt line with 12 seconds left.

Graham immediately called a timeout and told the Trojans to get the ball to Young or Valentine. Young scored 12 points in the first 31 minutes of the game and was the only Trojans in double figures, so it was only natural Young would take the shot.

Williams threw the inbound pass to Young, who dribbled down the court toward the basket. Young seeing a 10-foot jumper, paused, leaped and made the go-ahead basket with five seconds left.

Benton tried to call a timeout, but the Rangers had used both of their second half timeouts and were assessed with a technical foul.

Young made the first of the two shots and took the inbound pass after the foul to end the game and Benton's reign.

"It was hard times," Young said with a sigh. "If I got the ball, I was to take it as far as I could. When I saw I could take it all the way, I did since that was what I was supposed to do."

Young injured his index and middle fingers on his right hand, his shooting hand, in the first quarter of the game.

Because of a rule change this year, teams may call only two timeouts per half. The rule was made to speed up the game, particularly in the last minutes of the game. The rule has met with considerable criticism.

"I really don't like the timeout rule," Graham said. "We really needed to take a timeout in the third quarter when Benton starting coming back, but I couldn't because I thought I would have to use them in the fourth quarter."

Madison used both of its timeouts in the fourth quarter.

Baker finished the game with 23 points and was named to the all-tournament first team along with Spraggins, Cahokia's Nathan Chambers, and Centralia's Matthew Patrick and Dan Willis.

Joining Young on the second team were Eric Young and Ernest Taylor of East St. Louis, Todd Wolfe of Arlington and Dick Seidel of Homewood-Flossmoor.

Madison, 8-2 this season, is idle until Friday. The Trojans will play East St. Louis Assumption. sm1200rhw08

DAVID H. STIEBER

Stieber leads Smith Corp. auto division

David H. Stieber, 59, executive vice president of A.O. Smith Corporation, has been given corporate responsibility for the company's Automotive Division, the largest operating unit within A.O. Smith.

The expanded responsibilities come as a result of the announced retirement of L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer. Thomas J. Dolan, president, has been elected chief executive officer, effective Jan. 1.

Most operating units of the company had reported to Dolan but beginning in January they will report to Stieber or to three new senior vice presidents.

Stieber formerly headed the division as vice president and general manager from 1971 to 1979. He was assistant general manager of the Automotive Division from 1967 to 1971.

Besides automotive, Stieber will be responsible for the human resources and corporate communication departments.

A.O. Smith's Automotive Division is the nation's largest manufacturer of automobile and truck frames.

Sales of the division in 1982 amounted to $364 million and are running ahead of that in 1983.

Besides frames, the division makes rear trailing axles for front wheel drive cars and other structural products. Its customers include the big three auto makers and all major truck builders in North America.

The division's main plant is in Milwaukee with other plants located in Milan, Tenn., and Granite City. It has an affiliate operation in Monterrey, Mexico.

Stieber first joined A.O. Smith in 1949 following graduation from Northwestern University with a degree in electrical engineering. His first post was as a sales and application engineer in the Electric Motor Division.

He became part of the Automotive Division sales department in 1951, moving steadily upward until in 1960 he was named director of sales, product engineering and quality control. He was elected a vice president of Smith in 1967.

Stieber was named senior vice president for corporate staff services in 1979 and executive vice president in 1982.

He earned a master of business administration degree from Marquette University, is a longtime member of the Society of Automotive Engineers, and is a director of First Savings Association of Wisconsin. He was born in Chicago.

Dec. 31 deadline for license plate stickers

Midnight Saturday, Dec. 31, was the deadline to display 1984 miscellaneous calendar and two-year license plates, according to Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

Edgar said that annual recreational vehicle and trailer plates may be applied for by mail or purchased over the counter at secretary of state facilities in Springfield and Chicago.

Annual plates for commuter vans and fertilizer spreaders and two-year plates for antique vehicles, electric vehicles and charitable vehicles may be ordered by mail or purchased at the Centennial Building in Springfield.

Owners of company-owned and leased passenger cars, motorcycles and mopeds, also must display purple 1984 expiration stickers on their rear license plate after Dec. 31.

Approximately 291,000 renewal applications have been mailed for company-owned and leased cars, with an additional 292,800 for motorcycles and mopeds.

Company-owned and motorcycle and moped stickers may be purchased over the counter at secretary of state facilities, as well as, 1,400 financial institutions, including 617 banks, 180 savings and loan associations, 16 credit unions and about 600 Chicago area currency exchanges.

Edgar also announced that the deadline to display 1984 calendar-year Illinois apportionment plates on trucks, truck tractors, semi-trailers and trailers under the International Registration Plan and private base plates and decals, has been extended to midnight Feb. 29, 1984.

Alleges man shoots gun on Slough Road

After an officer alleged hearing a weapon being fired during the weekend on Slough Road, near the Terminal Railroad highline in Venice, an auto operated by Horace Brown, 62, of 327 Weaver St., Venice, was halted and a shotgun was seen on the front seat.

Brown, who allegedly had been warned previously that hunting is prohibited in the riverfront area, denied he was hunting but said he shot at a red fox that ran across the road. A 410 shotgun and five live shotgun shells were confiscated.

Charged with unlawful use of a weapon, illegal transportation of alcohol, violation of a restriction on his driver's license and failure to buy a city sticker, he posted $102 cash bail and was released to appear Jan. 20 in the Granite City court.

DUI CHARGE AFTER CRASH

Arriving at an accident scene at 19th Street and Delmar Avenue during the weekend, officers found Paul R. Woodruff, 25, of 2429 E. 23rd St. outside his vehicle. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. There had been a head-on collision with a car operated by Danny L. McCallister, 1942 Nineteenth St., who had halted at a stop sign. Woodruff was released after posting $102 cash bail and his driver license.

SUBSTITUTE COOKING JOBS

Applications are being taken in the Granite City school system for designation as substitute cafeteria workers. Food service experience is desirable. Application forms may be obtained at the School District Nine office, 20th and Adams Streets, 878-6660.

MAN HURT IN COLLISION

In a weekend collision on Nameoki Road at Richmond Avenue, Kenneth L. Wachter, 29, of 2159 Orville Ave. suffered an injury but declined immediate medical attention. Operating a second vehicle in the mishap was Thomas E. Santoni of Chicago Ridge, Ill.

THEFT FROM HARDWARE

He also will administer the Sacrament of Confirmation to Miss Winona K. McFord, Miss Amy Sue Warren and Christopher A. Blatz, and admit Miss Cynthia Kostek to her first Holy Communion.

Following the service the congregation will greet the Bishop and Mrs. Hulstrand at a wine and cheese fest in the Parish Hall of the church.

Sunday the bishop will make his visit to St. Thomas Church in Glen Carbon, and during the Mass there he will bless a new dorsal curtain, given recently in memory of Mrs. Anna Evans, by her family and friends.

Women's Division entertains 80 children at yule party

Santa Claus arrived in Granite City on a red motorcycle driven by Mike Crouch to attend a Christmas party for 80 children, arranged by the Women's Division of the Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce.

Beverly Partney, president, and Shirley Adams, general chairman, welcomed the youngsters at the Madison Lions Home that was decorated in a "Christmas With Smurf" motif.

Each guest was served a hot luncheon and cup cakes and cookies followed by entertainment provided by the "Kings Kids" puppet show presented by Herman and Sandy Schoeber, their children and friends. Several dances were performed by students of The Dance Studio, to conclude the program.

Santa then presented each child with a gift, donated by members and friends of the Women's Division. All sang several Christmas carols and as the young people departed they were given a bag of treats to take home and share with their families.

Throughout the affair the Ellette Clowns visited with the children.

Assisting with the annual yuletide party were Melaine McFarland in charge of transportation and gifts, Jeannette Scamell, gift register, Mary Sedekum, luncheon, Betty Dietrich and Billie Schuler, entertainment, Carolyn Smith and Joni Karandjeff, welcoming committee, Rosalie Davis, clump, Marlene Pennekamp, telephone committee, and Mrs. Partney and Mrs. Adams, decorations and gift bags. Lucy Randolph, a member of the chamber served as the photographer throughout the afternoon.

'Christmas In Our Hearts' is topic of EMB Circle

A lesson entitled, "Christmas In Our Hearts" was presented by Mrs. Maxine Medders at the December meeting of the Every Member Busy Circle of Nameoki United Methodist Church.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Luckert for the session conducted by Mrs. Luan Briner. Opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Alta Stewart.

Reports by the secretary and treasurer were submitted and approved by the membership.

A collection for the Least Coin was taken at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mrs. Briner announced the Jan. 24 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Norma Rains with Mrs. Norma Riden in charge of the lesson. Mrs. Virginia Carroll gave the closing meditation.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses to those named and to Alma Cowan, Helene Bischoff and Lois Holsinger.

Arlene Haldeman chapter hostess

Mrs. Arlene Haldeman was hostess to the Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, seasonal party and gift exchange.

Each member brought a covered dish to be served with a meat entree prepared by the hostess.

Those attending were, Dolores Byrnes, Ruth Stoyanoff, Delores Derrick, Pat Tsigaloroff, Lora Lombardi, Norma Rains, Imogene Forrest, Martha Dyer, Jane Stevens, Ben Brackett, Juna Calve, Evelyn Tolliver and Lucille Voyles, sponsor of the chapter.

Plans were also finalized for the President's Reception held Jan. 1 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Brackett.

Genealogical Society holds Christmas party

Mr. and Mrs. Karl (Lynn) Krug of Granite City, hosted a Christmas dinner party, in their home, for 11 members of the Tri-City Genealogical Society.

Traditional holiday decorations were used in the home and favors were reindeer lapel pins.

After the dinner hour a business meeting was conducted by Vice President Louis Joyner Jr., in the absence of the president, Mrs. Lorraine Bischoff, at which time the group agreed to donate funds to the Salvation Army Tree of Lights.

The society organized by Rose Spaulding held its first meeting in February 1978 at IOOF Six Mile Lodge 67. Four charter members attended the social event, and it was decided to disband the organization, but to continue with social meetings.

As each one departed Mrs. Krug gave them a small bag of handmade decorations used in the Decorate-A-Tree contest held at the former Feder-Huber Furniture Store. Historian Olive Joyner has kept a record book of special occasions in each member's life, since the initial gathering, it was announced.

Judge to set value of I-255 property

By JIM WOODCOCK
For landowners who appear to have lost portions of their land to Interstate 255 are taking the Illinois Department of Transportation to the limit by making the courts decide how much that property is worth.

The four landowners, who accused IDOT of unfair negotiating in previous litigation, contested the offers they received for their property during recent settlement hearings in Madison County circuit court.

THIRD CIRCUIT Associate Judge Edward Ferguson is expected to rule on all four cases soon, according to Fairview Heights attorney Harry Sterling, the landowners' legal counsel.

IDOT was awarded "quick take" rights to six parcels of property it needs to build the highway from Interstate 55-70 to Interstate 270.

Quick-takes allow the state to immediately claim titles to properties through eminent domain proceedings, and negotiate settlements with landowners at a later date.

A MOTION from landowners to deny IDOT quick take rights was turned down just prior to the settlement hearings.

IDOT will receive the titles when it makes a cash deposit on the properties.

Sterling said Ferguson will rule on both deposit and settlement figures for each of the four landowners.

During the hearings, two landowners agreed to a settlement offer by IDOT. However, Sterling said, the other four offers were unacceptable.

The landowners or partial owners are John and William Keller, Gordon Gass, Arthur and Walter Dean, Faber, Tom Foster, Don Willoughby, Gene Radic, Anita Frendzel, and Donald Sandau.

Sterling declined to name the two who agreed to a settlement.

STERLING, who represented landowners in four previous lawsuits against IDOT, said an appeal may be imminent if the settlement prices Ferguson decides on are not agreeable.

In addition, Sterling said, landowners have not discounted the possibility of appealing two other lawsuits which they recently lost against IDOT.

Two landowners lost a suit in November when Ferguson ruled that their property, designated as agricultural preserves, was not exempt from eminent domain laws.

Ferguson then ruled in December against seven landowners who attempted block condemnation proceedings by IDOT.

IN THAT LAWSUIT, landowners charged IDOT with failing to secure several permits to build the highway, as well as unfair negotiating.

"As of now we just don't know about those," Sterling said. "We'll wait and see what happens with this (settlement rulings) and then play it by ear."

Meanwhile, Sterling said, there will be oral arguments soon in a pending appeal in the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago.

The appeal involves a federal judge's ruling in the first litigation between landowners and IDOT in September. In that lawsuit, landowners were denied a temporary injunction to halt the highway's construction.

Owners claimed they were not provided with a public hearing to express their opposition to the project, and that IDOT failed to justify the merits of the highway.

ARRESTED TWICE FRIDAY

Early Friday brought two separate arrests of Floyd Ridgeway Jr., 33, of 21322 Edison Ave. At 12:50 a.m. he was arrested for battery after allegedly pulling some of the hair from the head of his wife, Donna, at Ingleside Tavern. After he was released at 1:30 a.m. on $50 bail, he was charged at 2:35 a.m. with speeding 51 miles per hour in a 35-mph zone in the 3000 block of Madison Avenue.

Jaycees sponsor 'shopping spree'

A Christmas shopping spree and luncheon at McDonald's was held under the auspices of the Granite City Jaycees for 23 area children, during the holiday season.

Members of the organization transported the children from their homes to Leader's Department Store to meet Santa Claus and select clothing, shoes and gifts they wanted for Christmas.

The excursion was planned and arranged by a committee headed by David Schillinger.

After shopping the children were taken to McDonald's for hamburgers, French fries and a drink then taken home.

Those serving on the committee for the event included Larry Beyer, chairman of the board who served as Santa, Charles Chromister, Scott Foster, Ray Samson and Tom Holtgreve.

Jaycees President Norman Burgess announced the club also prepared and delivered 13 food baskets during the Thanksgiving season to Quad-City families.

SPECIAL SELECTION.

An employee of Leader's Department Store sorts through winter wearing apparel for guests of the Granite City Jaycees to choose items for Christmas. Twenty three area children participated in the "shopping spree" sponsored by the Jaycees as one of its community projects for the year.

David Schillinger served as chairman of the committee and arranged transportation for the young people who were later treated to lunch before returning home.

Deputy dispute in third month

By JIM WOODCOCK
Off-duty Madison County sheriff's deputies entered their third month of picketing at the county courthouse Monday with no indication of new contract negotiations in sight.

Until a new negotiating session is scheduled, the deputies will continue picketing inside, and around the courthouse, said Lieut. Conrad "Pete" Baetz.

"We haven't heard anything from them (county officials), but they haven't worn us down any," Baetz said. "If they're doing anything by waiting, they're strengthening our resolve in the matter."

One elected official predicted the county will not change its position, no matter how long both sides remain at odds. "The county is doing the right thing," the official said.

The deputies' union, Operating Engineers Local 820-C, is not asking for a wage increase; it wants the county to pay the approximate $30,000 increase in health insurance costs.

County officials say the county cannot afford the increase.

The union's contract with the county expired Oct. 31. The next day, off-duty deputies started picketing outside the courthouse. Later, the county board rejected the union's request for an arbitrator.

Picketing went inside the courthouse a few days later.

Meantime, several contract offers by the county were turned down by the deputies' union.

Baetz said he was surprised to hear the county negotiating committee express optimism after a negotiating session Dec. 13. The county's offer at that session was immediately rejected by the deputies.

"If they're so optimistic, let's get down to business and settle this," Baetz said.

"Our lines are open. We'll have them (deputies) out of that courthouse in 15 minutes if they have something to offer."

County board negotiating committee member William Webb, Granite City, said he does not know when the county will propose further contract talks.

Service agencies to speak out on EOC

The Executive Roundtable, consisting of the administrators of the 36 social service agencies operating in Madison County, will speak out tomorrow on the programs operated until recently by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission.

A press conference has been called for 9 a.m. Wednesday at the office of the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services (DRS), 3675 Nameoki Road.

During the conference, the organization's position on EOC-related programs will be articulated. Plans for the meeting were announced by J. Stephen Dolan, DRS area supervisor based in Alton.

The not-for-profit EOC has been shut down for the past month due to allegations that funds were misused. Meanwhile, Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand on Thursday enjoined the EOC from withdrawing $155,000 from the Bank of Alton and an undisclosed amount from Gildorn Savings. He had frozen the money through a temporary restraining order Dec. 19.

Attorneys for 18 former EOC employees plan to seek a court order this week requiring that any money received by the agency go toward paying wages owed the employees. Also on Thursday, an attorney for an EOC creditor attended a meeting held to assess assets of the agency.

Judge Hildebrand's injunction, in effect through today, bars the EOC from withdrawing, disbursing or otherwise committing funds in the banks. Two former EOC employees related that the agency is expecting a $40,000 check from the Farmers Home Administration.

Gene Morelli, former deputy director for financial and legal affairs, said the grant is for work completed two years ago on the Self Help housing project in Fosterburg.

Attorney Tom Falb quoted the federal agency as saying the check had been mailed. The payment was delayed because public health inspectors had not finished inspecting plumbing in the six homes. The grant is to cover partial construction costs.

Attorney Russell Meyer of Alton said the owner of property at Stanley Road and Illinois Route 140 has been suing the EOC for the past two years and hopes to collect from current assets of the agency. Art Pauley, owner, alleges the EOC broke a lease with him.

EOC Attorney Jamie Reeves said the agency's balance at Gildorn is probably less than $500. Sixteen former employees filed a Third Circuit Court suit two weeks ago seeking their pay. They had been paid through the Community Service Block Grant program until a shutdown of EOC programs Dec. 7.

The suit was amended in late December to include two more employees.

The Madison County government has agreed to take over some EOC activities and is urging that Head Start preschool instruction be resumed soon.

The Grants Committee of the Madison County Board said Friday that the county would retain its sponsorship of Head Start permanently if allowed to operate it now. The committee would place supervision in the hands of Regional School Supt. Harold E. "Gene" Briggs.

New statewide system

SPRINGFIELD—A new, statewide probation system under the supervision of the Illinois courts has been signed into law by Gov. James R. Thompson.

The legislation was approved in the fall session by the General Assembly where it was sponsored by Reps. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago and James Marzuki, D-Park Forest and Sens. George Sangmeister, D-Mokena and Adeline GeoKaris, R-Zion.

The legislation was part of a state drive to cut down overcrowding the Illinois prison system.

The legislation requires the Administrative Office of the Illinois Courts, which is headed by Roy Gulley, to establish a Division of Probation. Services which will coordinate and further develop guidelines for the program, as well as monitor progress under the new system. Two key provisions of the legislation include an intensive supervision program for lesser offenders and more probation officers to meet professional caseload standards.

Chief management officers and additional probation officers will be named to individual counties and any multi-county probation regions from a list of applicants supplied by the Administrative Office of the Courts, which will oversee hiring and training in the system. County probation regions, under the plan, will be drawn by the Chief Circuit Court Judge.

Other steps in the legislation include:

— Reimbursing counties for the full cost of any additional probation officers hired to meet caseload standards and steps outlined in the bill. Salaries for chief management officers in probation regions will be fully funded by the state.

— Increasing to $500 the state's monthly subsidy for each qualified probation officer to help offset office space, equipment and support services costs.

— Giving probation officers "peace officer" rank, enabling them to carry firearms while carrying out official duties.

Thompson also has approved a $1.9 million supplemental appropriation measure that will be used to revamp the probation system starting next April 1 and lasting through the end of the current fiscal year. In the following year, $12 million will be used in the program.

WARMING AUTO IS TAKEN

Harm from cannabis smoking is increasing

While for years marijuana (cannabis) was thought to be no more than a mild intoxicant less harmful than tobacco or alcohol, recent scientific studies reveal just the opposite.

That is the word from Pima Health Care's Collinsville office. The agency has presented the following information about marijuana:

"Medical researchers have found that smoking marijuana can lead to severe physical and sometimes psychological damage. While most abused drugs are composed of only one chemical, marijuana is known to contain more than 400 chemicals.

Due to refined growing methods, marijuana is stronger than it was 10 to 20 years ago. A 1977 nationwide study shows an increased frequency of use.

Marijuana now accounts for the second largest number of admissions to drug treatment centers nationwide. Marijuana is said to meet the criteria for an addictive drug, and if a neutralizing agent is given, withdrawal is the same as with heroin addiction.

Chemical and biomedical research into the effects of marijuana only began in the U.S. in the early '70's. The results of those studies were published in medical journals and little was made known to the general public. The main psychoactive ingredient in marijuana, THC, is fat soluble, unlike alcohol, which is water soluble and washes quickly out of the body.

THC remains longer in the body and is absorbed by all cells, especially those of the brain and reproductive organs because of their unusually high fat content.

Twenty percent of the THC is still active in the body after one month. This means that anyone who smokes marijuana more often than once a month is never drug-free and is constantly adding to the amount of THC in his or her body.

Marijuana has been found to have hazardous effects on important body functions and aspects of the personality, including:

Reproductive system — In males, THC causes highly reduced sperm count, abnormal sperm and decreased sperm mobility and a highly reduced amount of the principal male hormone.

THC can cause damage to the DNA in a woman's egg cells. DNA is the chemical that carries the genetic code.

The brain — Recent clinical evidence shows smoking fewer than two marijuana cigarettes per week for three months causes persistent behavior effects and evidence of brain damage begins to develop.

The lungs — Marijuana has been shown to cause narrowing of both the large and small airways, lesions, tissue destruction and chronic inflammation, severe alteration in DNA and chromosomes of the lung cells, and cases of emphysema and bronchitis in chronic users 18, 19 and 20 years old.

Immune system — Four joints a week for one year reduced by 44 percent the white blood cells that fight germs and infection.

Genetic implications — Many researchers throughout the world have reported significant chromosome alterations in white cells of chronic marijuana smokers. The psyche — Over a long period of time, marijuana use is said to cause diminished drive, lessened ambition, shortened attention span, poor judgment and impaired communication skills. Driving performance — One joint before driving results in a 63 percent decrease in driving skills.

Some tax shelters not what they seem

Precautions to take when investing in tax shelter programs are the subject of the third "Investor Alert" issued by Sec. of State Jim Edgar and the Illinois Better Business Bureau.

"While there are many legal ways to reduce taxes," Edgar said, "investors should avoid suspicious tax shelter plans in which the promised tax savings are many times the cost of their investment. Many questionable tax shelter proposals have little economic foundation or are based on inflated assessments."

"A good rule of thumb to follow when considering a tax shelter is to decide whether the investment appears to be a good deal, aside from the possible tax benefits."

Edgar said it is the investor's responsibility to investigate the full tax consequences of a tax shelter. "If the Internal Revenue Service successfully challenges a tax shelter plan, the investor could lose his investment, past tax deductions and tax credits, and become liable for penalties and interest charges," Edgar said.

"The 'Investor Alert' outlines steps an investor should follow before becoming involved in a tax shelter plan."

"For instance, the investor should determine whether the tax shelter program and its salesmen are licensed with the appropriate governmental agency." The secretary of state's securities department registers all securities offered for sale in Illinois and investigates reports of fraudulent activities or violations of the Illinois Securities Act.

The "Investor Alert" program is being sponsored by state securities regulators and Better Business Bureaus. For information, Quad-Cityans may contact the securities department in Springfield at 217-782-2256.

PRISON GUARDS, PUBLIC AID CASEWORKERS HIRED

The number of employees on the state payroll rose to 112,699 in November, Comptroller Roland W. Burris reported Friday. Much of the increase was due to hiring of additional correctional officers and public aid caseworkers at the Department of Corrections and rehiring of caseworkers and additional new personnel at the Department of Public Aid.

The November state payroll marked an increase of 1.5 percent over the previous month. Changes in major groups were: corrections officers, up 404; public aid caseworkers, up 15; and miscellaneous positions, up 69.

Newton-John a Barbie doll?

By Robin Welles

HOLLYWOOD — There's a new record guide out and music fans will find it a veritable encyclopedia, complete with opinions on the modern music scene.

It's the "New Rolling Stone Record Guide," a softcover edition compiled by Dave Marsh and John Swenson (Random House, $12.95, softcover).

More than 12,000 rock, pop, soul, country, blues, folk and gospel albums are rated by the star system.

Equally interesting are the guide's opinions about some of our leading artists:

Olivia Newton-John — "Blank, open face of a Barbie doll ... whispering fashion model voice ... music to go with your marshmallow sundaes."

Grateful Dead — "Patchouli-oil philosophy, which does nothing more than reinforce solipsism and self-indulgence in its listeners ... is exactly the sort of stuff that gave peace 'n' love a bad name."

Rolling Stones — "The greatest white blues' and rhythm & blues band that ever was."

Barbra Streisand — "The most influential mainstream American pop singer since Frank Sinatra ... succeeded Judy Garland as queen of the vaudeville-cum-torch tradition of Fanny Brice and Helen Morgan."

John Lennon — "Always an angry man, caught between a desire to please his audience and to assault it ... marked his career with desperation, smugness and confusion."

Aretha Franklin — "Greatest female singer of her generation, perhaps the greatest all-around musical talent in black music since Ray Charles."

Not just another pretty face

By Alan Gansberg

HOLLYWOOD — He'll tell you that his goal as an actor is "just to be a character actor. Whatever happens, happens," but to the growing number of fans of the NBC series "Cheers," GEORGE WENDT is becoming more than just another character face.

Wendt portrays Norm on the series, the guy who spends every night at the bar, downing beers and trading barbs with the regular family. He's an unemployed accountant who dislikes his wife.

Moving to real life, George Wendt has rarely been without an acting job since he was asked to join the famed Second City company in his native Chicago. Three years ago he came out to Los Angeles, did numerous guest shots and a few films, then the series "Making the Grade," and in 1982 gained the part in "Cheers."

Actually, he didn't grow up wanting to act. He only wanted a profession in which he wouldn't hate what he was doing. After college, Wendt spent a few years on the beaches of North Africa contemplating what the next move should be. Returning to Chicago, he went to a performance of Second City, decided to take one of the company's workshop classes, and ... well, one thing led to another and Wendt found a profession he wouldn't hate.

Alongside Wendt in the company was an actress named SHELLEY LONG, who would also move to Hollywood and become the star of "Cheers."

And it was in the company that Wendt met his wife, actress Bernadette Birkett, who has since established herself with an improvisation group in Los Angeles. They live in Studio City with her two sons from a previous marriage, ages 13 and 15.

"Being a stepfather can be challenging and rewarding," Wendt said. "Early on in our marriage — which is five years now — they, the boys, had problems. When I'd tell them to do something they didn't feel like doing, they couldn't understand who this man was who was telling them what to do."

It has worked out, and they've formed a congenial bunch, although the boys don't necessarily make an effort to watch "Cheers," and Wendt doesn't force the issue. He's an avid viewer.

"I watch the show," he admitted. "I want to know how I'm coming off against 20 million people. — Gosh."

Fans of the book "The Outsiders" and the movie version released last year and starring MATT DILLON will be pleased to know that director FRANCIS

FORD COPPOLA has pacted with Warner Bros. TV and two procedures there to try to bring the story to series television. Dillon is not expected to be involved with the series.

JIMMY CAGNEY is in front of the cameras again, in an upcoming CBS telefeature, "Terrible Joe." ELLEN BARKIN of "Diner" fame, portrays his granddaughter, a young woman who hates him. He's a former, boxing champion confined to a wheelchair. Also in the cast are ART CARNEY and former heavyweight champion FLOYD PATTERSON.

It's STEPHEN MACHT's year to play bad guys. After finishing work as Benedict Arnold in the CBS-miniseries "George Washington," he goes in front of the cameras as Haman, the villain of ABC's "Samson and Delilah." Yet, in real life he's the perfect family man.

CBS is planning on doing a TV movie about the life of French sex symbol and actress BRIGITTE BARDOT. No word yet on who would play the part.

RICHARD BENJAMIN, who moved from acting to directing with "My Favorite Year" is awaiting the green light to direct "Dick Tracy." Benjamin is just finishing work on his second film, "Racing With The Moon."

Getting ready for Winter Olympics

By Nancy Anderson

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia — Have you noticed how much easier it is to pack when you're starting a trip than it is when you're going home from one?

If so, you can sympathize with ABC television which had to pack 33 tractor-trailer loads of gear for a trip here for coverage of the 1984 Winter Olympics.

Holding exclusive U.S. television rights, the network will air more than 63 hours of Olympic-related programming between Feb. 7 and 19.

To make this possible, ABC has assembled $30 million worth of equipment in a Sarajevo broadcast center.

The necessary mass of cables, dials, computers, flashing lights and so forth was first set up in Los Angeles and thoroughly tested. Then, after a transcontinental trip, it was reassembled in a warehouse on the Hudson River and tested again in an exercise ABC called "war games."

Finally it was repacked into tractor-trailers and shipped to Rotterdam where after 10 days at sea, it began a three-day, cross-country trip to Sarajevo.

Then came the capper.

All the tons and tons of intricate gear had to be pulled out of trucks and taken to an upper story in the broadcast center by way of one, small freight elevator.

When the games are over, ABC will leave nothing behind, so the weighty, complicated materiel will have to be taken down on that same elevator, repacked into trailers and returned to Los Angeles by the 8,000-mile route it came so that it can be used for coverage of the Los Angeles Summer Olympics.

ABC also has exclusive rights to the Summer Games, so, in 1984, the network will telecast 250 Olympic hours.

Some of the computerized apparatus to be used in this exercise is frighteningly efficient. In certain areas, man is almost outmoded.

In front of the cameras, a computer can't replace a downhill skier in an Olympic race, but, behind cameras — well, that's another story.

During the 1984 Games coverage, for example, a computer will change the graphics which were previously changed by hand.

"And we were always getting a hand in the shot," Jeff Ruhe, director of Olympic production and coordinating producer, remembers wryly.

In more primitive times, if the network wanted footage of a particular sports figure to use in a sidebar feature, a human being had to rummage through the logs hoping to find it.

But no more. Now 20 years of televised sports history has been computerized, making a subject available at the touch of a button. Another computer puts 20 hours of music at the fingertips, so that appropriate strains are instantly available.

In connection with the Winter Games, ABC will air vignettes about Balkan history and culture and profiles of Olympic stars.

The profiles had to be produced well ahead of the Games, and picking appropriate subjects was somewhat chancy. Since each featurette, running approximately three minutes, cost $10,000, intense research went into the selection of subjects.

Ruhe estimates that about 80 percent of the profiles will be used and that more than half will be of Americans.
